Can I still return this order?

ASSISTANTReturns advisor

Unfortunately, this order (from August 17) is 15 days old, which puts it just past our standard 14-day return window — so it's not eligible for a return under normal policy. Since it's only one day past, I'm opening this up with our support team for a human review.

One thing that could change this: if the items arrived damaged or defective, that's handled as an exception at any time. Did either item have a quality issue, or is this a change-of-mind return?

ASSISTANT Escalation

I've opened ticket STUB-4645DFE7 with our support team, referencing order 46101 and your return question. A human agent will follow up with you directly to review it.

YOU

I would like to speak to a human, please.

ASSISTANT

I've already opened ticket STUB-4645DFE7 with our support team about your return question for order 46101, and a human agent will follow up with you directly. There's no need to open a separate request — that ticket has you covered.

Ticket STUB-AB902A64 is open with our support team. It references order 46101. Reason: ungrounded. A human will pick this up — I can't process refunds, cancellations, or payments myself.

Handed to a human. Ticket STUB-AB902A64 — not covered by NovaMart policy or data.

What the customer wants

The assistant replied without consulting a specialist, so the answer was not grounded in NovaMart data or policy. The customer's question needs a human.

Thanks — that is recorded.
